Supervisor White wants the nomiution for probate judge and school perintendent; He is already working his points.

The fall crop of nosegays is beginning to ripen. Men of strictly temparate habits are beginning to exhibit signs of distress upon their thumb-

Tomorrow will be an excellent day to work button holes. Every man from the country will know who his best friend is Judge Monk has made a good officer in his present position and his party would make a great mistake by not renominating him.

Josiah Pool is a candidate for supervisor and his party might go a long way to find a better man.

John Montgomery is the holdover supervisor this year, which would make no difference as he would be elected again by a big majority. The only kick against him is by those who cannot work him. It is the same gang which has been trying to kill Wolfley and for the same reason.

John Slaughter says positively that he will not run for sheriff again. Perhaps he might be induced to if the people insisted upon it. The politicians want to kill him off 'cause he wont work with the machine.

J. P. McAllister will probably succesd himself. He certainly can do so if he wants to unless he is downed in the convention.

B, S, Coffman has not announced his preference as yet for any office, but his admirable business qualities will carry him back into the supervisors chair if he will accept it.

Bisbee will probably furnish food for thought this year when the conventions meet. The Bisbeeites want and should have a supervisor and there is a sufficient quantity of good material to select from.

Tom Sorin is spoken of as a possible candidate for sheriff. Tom would make a strong pull in any race, but doesn't understand how to manipulate the primaries, so may as well consider himself out of the field.

A fresh supply of wine of all kinds, just opened at Nardini's. Mf.

ago,

There were four of us riding the range:

And being American cowboys you know.

It won't seem anything strange. If I tell you that we were a little surprised.

And delighted, that spirits were high When Joe Moor says, "If the dates ain't revised.

To-morrow's the Fourth of July." We were hunting for cattle that long And battle with savages hovering near, had been lost,

Had scoured each valley and knoll; Had been quite successful, and that eve we tossed Our packs by a telegraph pole, And made up our minds as the sun went down. That, no settlement being nigh, Out there on the prairie so far from a town We would celebrate Fourth of July We appointed committees for everything, We hadn't much trouble, you'll say. As there were but four of us, some had to sing

And recite on that glorious day. But none of us having much learning to bring. It was almost as easy to fly As to find there among us, one able to sling An oration for Fourth of July.

Joe Moore was appointed to 'rect a grand stand And think of a piece to recite;

And because Jimmy Lone had to furnish the band, He talked in his sleep all night.

The following few lines from the PROSPECTOR'S Sonora correspondent will prove of much interest to all inhabitants of southern Arizons:

SAN PEDRO, July 1, 1890.

Editor Prospector:-It may be of interest to your many readers to know that there is at last a prospect of practical results from the long pending negotiations between the Copper Queen mining company and Camon, the owner of the coal fields below the line. Lewis Vidal passed through here to-day on his way to denounce a coal proporty in Sonora. It has also leaked out that the recent visit of Ben Williams and Professor Douglas to the Sonora capital was to perfect the conveyance of the property, and surveyors are already at work at the Sonora end of the line of road to be constructed to Bisbee, to connect with the A. & S. E. road. Recent experiments with the coal from the Sonora coal fields have shown a superior quality to anything yet discovered in this country, but whether it came from a greater depth or new discoveries is not known by your correspondent.
